

THURSDAY EVENING. NOV. 8, 1894.

No MATTER what else the President may or may not have done, he has effectually eliminated every democrat in his State from the list of possible turn out the sitting member, but would Presidential nominees during the next and should be seated in his place. Take Presidential nominees during tale has and set at each organized, demoralized, and set at each probably 3000. Were there a hundred organized, demoralized, and set at each others throats the democrats of New York, that they can not unite upon one of their own men during the present generation, and a national democratic tions, the worst any partisan majority convention could hardly be foolish had done, would be to declare the reenough to nominate a candidate for sult a nullity and direct the holding of whom a State with thirty-six electoral another election. They would not ballots could not reasonably be expect-think of seating the minority candidate, as that would be contrary to ed to vote. So, after all, Mr. Cleveland may be a blessing in disguise.

is over, as vox populi must continually cry, the municipal election of next May will afford it that opportunity here, be lengthened, and elections be consolidated, so as to allow people who are tired of the political tune an opportunity to hear some others. Wise and industrious men are sick and disgusted The Bishop thanked Secretary Herbert with popular elections and the desire to for the courtesies which had been exindustrious men are sick and disgusted do away with them, like grace, is increasing day by day.

THAT THE vast majority of the people of this country are so stupid and ignorant that they even vote against morning at the Russian Legation, which their own individual interests, is proved by the fact that Tuesday they united with the few rich men and voted, practically, for the repeal of the income tax bill, though they are not subject to that tax, and though, by means of it, the taxes on their necessaries are reduced. But, vox populi, vox Dei!

THE CLEVELAND democrats in New York, in order to make sure of Senator Hill's defeat, scratched the name of Wheeler, their own candidate for Governor, and substituted for it that of Morton, the republican nominee. Their object was to beat Hill, irrespective of consequences, and, unfortunately for the party that believed what they said them unless directed to "Surrender." at the Chicago convention, they have succeeded.

As IN all the other elections since the President's second inauguration, the democratic defeat of Tuesday was not the result of republican gains, but solely and entirely of democratic losses, people who had never in all their lives polls. Many of those defeated were voted any other than a democratic party leaders, had served for many ticket, refusing to go to the polls because portant committees. they were utterly disgusted with the mugwumpism of modern democracy.

Governor O'Ferrall in reference to the election said yesterday that it looked pretty bad, but he was not at all discouraged. He had always said that the tariff bill was not passed soon democratic campaign committee, gives enough to let the people see the benefit of it, and then, too, the party was divided in its own household. He had no doubt, however, that the party would rally for the contest in 1896. The Governor believes that the election on Tuesday was a protest against free coinage, and he does not look for any attempt at silver legislation in Congress next winter. Nor does he expect any attempt to change the existing tariff law, except that a bill to put sugar on the free list will probably be introduced, with good change of statistics.

THE ELECTIONS.

Later returns from the elections held | on Tuesday indicate further republican gains. Returns from Virginia indicate the election of Walker, republican, to Congress in the ninth district instead of Morrison, democrat. In the other nine districts democratic congressmen have been elected. The democrats are certain of having carried nine districts. The republicans will contest Tyler's seat in the second, Tucker's in the tenth, probably McKenney's in the fourth and possibly others. The most significant feature of the contest is the heavy losses the democrats sustained in the great white districts of the valley and the southwest. These are the es timated majorities: First district, Jones timated majorities: First district, John 3,000; second, Tyler, 3,500; third, Ellett, 7,000; fourth, McKinney, 700; fifth, Swauson, 2,500; sixth, Otey, 1,200; seventh, Turner, 1,500; eighth, Meredith, 2,000; ninth, Walker, (republican) 3,500; tenth, Tucker, 2,500. The election of General Walker, re publicau, in the ninth is conceded by the democrats. The democratic majority in the State will probably be 25,000.
The West V rginia democratic execu tive committee, at Charleston, concedes the election of all four republican Congressmen and a republican Legislature which will elect a United States Sena tor to succeed Hon. J. N. Camden. It is said Hon. Stephen B. Elkins will succeed United States Senator Camden. The republicans claim the election of A. G. Dayton over Hon. Wm. L. Wilson in the second district by 2,000 majority.

The latest returns from North Carolina indicate the election of the fusion State ticket and that this republicanpopulist combination has elected six out of the nine Congressmen and a ma jority on joint bailot in the Legislature, which would give them the two United States Senators to be elected. The democrats concede that the fusionists, composed of republicans and populists, have secured a majority in the Senate They say as to the House there is doubt, which only the official count to-day can settle.

The Maryland delegation in the next Congress will stand three democrats and three republicans. Mr. Charles E. Coffin, republican, was elected from the fifth district to serve the remainder of the present Congress. 'The republicans upon the congressional ticket carried the State of Maryland by about 2,500 majority. They had majorities in fif-teen counties. Nearly 20,000 democrats did not vote.

The republican plurality in Illinois was about 125,000, and in Cook county including Chicago, nearly 40,000. The democrats elected one Congressman out of twenty-two, a democratic loss of

Mortan's plurality in the State is about

In Pennsylvania the republicans elected twenty-eight of the thirty Congressmen. The plurality of Hastings, republican, over Singerly, democrat, for Governor, was 233,378. Philadelphia gave 85,000 republican majority.

James H. Budd, democrat, was electen Governor of California. The republicans elected six of the seven Congressmen. In Ohio the republicans elected all the Congressmen except Paul J. Sorg and F. C. Loyton, democrats, in the Third and Fourth districts, respective ly. Tom L. Johnson, democrat, was defeated by Theodore E. Burton, republican, by 4,662. The result in Tennessee is in doubt as concedes the legislature to the republicans. The democrats have lost eight congressmen.

Kentucky elected 8 democratic and 3 republican congressmen.

William C. Owens, democrat, has a majority of 59 in the Seventh (Ashland) congressional district, now represented by William C. P. Breckinridge.

The indications show that the United States Senate will have forty democrats, forty-one republicans and six pop ulists, not counting the successor to Senator Harris, democrat, of Tennessee who is a doubtful quantity. In this classification, Stewart and Jones of Nevada, and Tillman, who will be elected from South Carolina, have been put with the populists. It is probable that Tillman will vote on the organization of the Senate with the democrats, and Stewart, Jones, and Peffer, of Kansas, with the republicans. This would give the populists the balance of power in the Senate.

In the House the republicans will have 232 members, the democrats 120, the populists 3, and 1 is classed as a silver man; total 356. By States, the republicans will have more than twothirds majority, in case the next presidential election is thrown into the House. The latest returns show the greatest republican pluralities on record in the northern and western, States. Below are some of them: Pennsylvania..... New York..... Illinois..... Michigan ... Kansas..... Washington..... Connecticut ... ..... Maryland..... Delaware.....

Chairman Babcock, of the republican national committee, said last night that it looked as if the republicans would organize the next House with a majority of more than a hundred. All accounts agree that the Senate, too, will be controlled by the republicans.

Horrible Choctaw Execution. A dispatch from Panola, I. T., says: Monday put an end to the life of Silian Lewis, the Wilburton political prisoner, who has been respited by Secretary Hoke Smith so many times. At exactly ten o'clock Lyman Pursley, sheriff of Gaines county, fired the fatal shot which sent his soul to the unknown. Beyond his beautiful eighteen-year-old white wife, there was no other relative present to witness the execution, and she was taken away on the pretense that there would be trouble, and she might be killed. They were married last June, immediately after he was released on bond Just before ten o'clock the sheriff and guards told him to come on and get ready to be shot. He said "Omah," which in English means "all right." He pulled off his coat and vest, and laid them on the ground by his side. The sheriff then painted a star just under his right nipple, rolled the shirt collar back, and spread a blanket on the ground in front of the counthouse door. Lewis prayed and made a short of him, and used a forty-four calibre Winchester rifle. The ball passed clear through his body, ranging downward and into the ground.

Before the shooting Lewis was blindfolded, and two men held his hands. When the shot was fired the blood spurted out in a stream. He uttered a number of loud and pitiful groans. He lived for thirty minutes, and the sheriff held his nose and finally smothered him. He died a horrible death. He was shot by his enemy, and it is claimed was shot in the right side in order that he might die as hard as possible As soon as life was extinct the sheriff turned him over to the white folks, and then with the horse rode away hurriedly. He evidently anticipated trouble, and wanted to get away before it came Everybody is expecting trouble, and it is openly asserted that the killing has just begun. Silian Lewis was a full-blooded Choctaw, about fifty-four years old, and had once been a sheriff of his country. He faced death as bravely as ever man did, and never quivered. The crime for which Silian Lewis was legally shot to death was the political assassination of five men, and dates back to September 10, 1892. The case shall also put in this class will be $6. While the democrats were in no way responsible for this they were made the scapegoats. It was also in part due to the delay of Congress in passing the tariff bill. Had the bill become a law ninety days earlier than it did, it is quite probable that the business conditions of the country would have so adjusted themselves that the political result would have been different."

Considerable indignation was expressed in New York yesterday by several gentlemen directly concerned in the story that has been circulated lately, to the effect that Cornelius Vanderbilt had torpedoes at Port Arthur and are in been swindled in the purchase of a pair of bronze doors from a firm in Paris, France. According to the story, Mr. Vanderbilt, while abroad, a few years ago, visited the Cathedral of Santa Ma-St. Petersburg, Nov. 8.—The ria del Flore, Florence, and so greatly funeral services over the remains of admired the San Giovanni baptistry doors there, which were executed more than 400 years ago by the famous Italian sculptor Lorenzo Ghibertti, that he determined to have a reproduction of them made for his new mansion in Fifth avenue, and paid $125,000 for them. The doors says the narative, were taken to the Bonnard Bronze Company's works, in west Sixteenth street, to have some of the guilding removed, and, it is asserted, it was then discovered that the doors, instead of being solid bronze, were made of heavy wood, with a metal covering, and weighted with iron spikes to make them appear like the real "The story is absolutely untrue," said Mr. O'Kane, of the Bonnard Company. 'The facts are that a pair of doors were imported about 14 years ago for the old Vanderbilt mansion, where they had been hung in the vestibule until a short time ago, when they were sent to us to b overhauled.
